

Regarding Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election, the listening public cannot and will not stand by and allow media meddling in the electoral process.

The powers that be cannot expect to allow these actions without suffering some damage to their credibility.
We the public are becoming aware of the dangers of media consolidation due to actions such as these.

I have always considered the people who complain about media bias to be whiners and crybabies. The blatantly political programming that Sinclair is attempting to air goes far beyond anything that I would have expected from the media in a pre-election environment.

Sinclair is clearly putting all of their eggs in one basket.

Considering the decision to adopt a position that clearly indicates total support for one side of a bitterly divided election, they must recognize that this is a flawed business strategy that is destined to alienate over half of their listening audience.
How can the FCC not consider anti-monopoly legislation considering the danger represented in the partisan political position that Sinclair is attempting to foist on the American Public?

Get on the right side of this issue while you still have a chance of salvaging support from the citizenry

Thank you.
